

Chronic Kidney Disease

KEEP YOUR KIDNEYS HEALTHIER LONGER

As part of the Patient-Centered Medical Home (PCMH) Program, your primary care provider (PCP) and PCMH Care Coordinator will provide you with information to help you manage your health. Below are general guidelines for your condition. Please work with your PCP or Care Coordinator for your specific health needs.

What is Chronic Kidney Disease (CKD)?

Kidneys are your body's filters. Their job is to remove waste and excess water from your blood to make urine. CKD is when your kidneys are damaged and can no longer filter blood properly. The two main causes of CKD are diabetes and high blood pressure.

Managing CKD

If you have been diagnosed with CKD, it is important to follow your doctor's instructions. Take only the supplements and/or medications recommended by your doctor and stay up-to-date on all prescribed tests. Because a healthy diet can keep your kidneys healthier or slow the progression of CKD, your doctor can also refer you to a registered dietitian (RD). An RD can help you with meal planning and choosing the right foods for your condition.

Diet Tips

When your kidneys were working the right way, they helped keep the body's chemical balance. It is very important to read food labels and learn how much of a certain mineral is in the food you are eating. Getting the right amounts of the right foods can be confusing. Don't go it alone. Working with your doctor and RD will help you sort out all the new information.

Sodium/Salt. You should consume less than 1,500 milligrams of sodium/day. Look for foods marked Sodium Free, Low Sodium, No Salt Added and Unsalted. Eat more fresh foods and less packaged (frozen, canned, prepared) foods.

Note: The doctors and other medical providers are independent providers making their own medical determinations and are not employed by CareFirst BlueCross BlueShield or CareFirst BlueChoice, Inc.

Calcium and Phosphorous. Your kidneys may not be able to remove phosphorous from your blood which results in unhealthy high levels of that mineral. Unfortunately, most dairy products (the first go-to food source for calcium) have large amounts of phosphorous in them.

Choose foods lower in phosphorus including:

- Dairy—cream cheese, heavy cream, ricotta cheese, brie cheese, sherbet, nondairy whipped toppings, tub margarine and butter.
- Other foods—fresh fruits, vegetables, breads, pastas, rice, unenriched rice milk, corn and rice cereals.

Try to limit foods high in phosphorous including meat, poultry, fish, bran cereals, oatmeal, most dairy foods, beans, lentils, nuts, hot chocolate, beer and dark colas.

Potassium. Depending on your stage of CKD, you may need to limit your potassium intake.

Limit foods higher in potassium, including:

- Certain fruits —oranges, bananas, nectarines, kiwi, cantaloupe, honeydew, prunes, dried fruit.
- Certain vegetables—asparagus, avocado, potatoes, tomatoes, winter squash, pumpkin.
- Other foods —whole wheat bread and pasta, bran cereals, brown and wild rice, dairy foods, beans, nuts and salt substitutes.

Iron. If your CKD is advanced you may suffer from anemia and need extra iron. Discuss with your doctor or RD how to increase your iron intake.

Protein. If you are not on dialysis, your doctor may recommend a low-protein diet.

Carbohydrates. If you have been put on a low-protein diet and are not overweight or diabetic, your portions of carbohydrates such as fruits, vegetables, breads and grains can be increased. Your RD may recommend adding simple carbohydrates like sugar, honey, jelly, jam, syrup and hard candies.
